A RESOLUTION

TO: Incinerating Trash for Fuel

SECTION I:

Landfills are currently inefficient, as they take up space and collect masses of trash that do not break down for years.

SECTION II:

Create a fund that is supported by countries and non-governmental funded organizations that support the creation of incinerators that burn 1000 tons per day. Gases emitted in this burning will be converted to fuel to power the incinerators and other uses. Burning stuff is fun.

SECTION III:

This will be funded by countries who wish to opt in and provide whatever level of funding they want. Internationals non-governmental organizations such as Green Peace International and the World Resources Institute as well as others will also be asked to

SECTION IV:

This is optional, therefore no penalties will be enacted.

A RESOLUTION

TO: Empowering Developing Countries

SECTION I:

Neocolonialism has plagued developing countries as it restricts their economic opportunity as well as violates their national sovereignty. Thus, developing countries should possess the right to accept or deny economic relations or influences.

SECTION II:

A subcommittee of the United Nations will monitor international private business trade relations.

SECTION III:

The country that opts into this investigation process is expected to provide monetary support for its own examination.

SECTION IV:

This committee will not deal out punishments. Instead, it will present any potential issues to the UN for its respective judgment.

A RESOLUTION

TO: Goodbye Garbage

SECTION I:

Cyprus and the world have a major problem waste management. Cyprus also has an issue with an insurgent government in the north.

SECTION II:

To solve both of these monumental issues, countries can opt in to a program to send as much waste as they feel to the northern region of our country. This will only cost a small fee of $3 million per country. This waste will then be incinerated via a small nuclear strike in the northern region. The date and location of the trash storage and strike will be decided on by the security council.

SECTION III:

5% of the proceeds Cyprus makes will be given to the country who volunteers their nuclear weapon (Japan)

SECTION IV:

No penalties

A RESOLUTION

TO: Make Recycling Free Through Plastic Taxation

SECTION I:

The goal of this resolution is to make recycling free to all United Nations member nations through the levying of taxes on plastic use.

SECTION II:

A tax will be set on all United Nations members for plastic use. The taxes will be used to make recycling a free service for all citizens of these countries. This program will be entirely mandatory for all members. The UN will enforce this directly.

SECTION III:

This resolution will be financed through the plastic tax. It will be proportionate to the amount of plastic pollution a country puts out.

SECTION IV:

The penalty for not following this resolution will be a tax imposed on nations that refuse to participate.

A RESOLUTION

TO: Research Funding

SECTION I:

The goal of this resolution is to provide funds for research regarding geoengineering considering it is such a new and unexplored field.

SECTION II:

This resolution will create an opt-in fund that any country will be able to provide to. This will hopefully lead to new geoengineering techniques and encourage UN members to take a stand on the issue and take steps forward in solving the climate crisis.

SECTION III:

The asking donation is 0.01% of said country's GDP. All of the funds will be put into research.

SECTION IV:

There will be no penalties because it is optional.

A RESOLUTION

TO: Minimizing Corporate Monopolization

SECTION I:

Minimize big corporate monopolization in developing Nations. Corporations that completely monopolize smaller harm smaller country.

SECTION II:

Participation in this resolution will be mandatory for all countries. Countries that currently provide financial aid to smaller, developing countries should have equal decision-making power in regards to economic collaboration.

SECTION III:

The countries that sponsor the large corporations that have financial presence in the country they have economic relations in should cover the costs that this resolution may entail.

SECTION IV:

If the dominating country does not comply with the regulations of this resolution, a fine will be paid to the country in which they have economic dominance. Fines will be determined according to level of presence in specified country, as well as level of breach of resolution.

A RESOLUTION

TO: Carbon Recycling Technology

SECTION I:

As climate change continues to harm the Earth in ways such as desertification and rising sea levels, a solution to slow effects of excess carbon in the atmosphere is necessary.

SECTION II:

Get funding from the tax that the United Nations puts upon countries that exceed allowed carbon emission levels to develop geoengineering technology that converts excess atmospheric carbon dioxide into liquid carbon dioxide to be stored. This liquid carbon dioxide will be recycled into fuel and gasoline to reduce mining of fossil fuels, which releases excess carbon into atmosphere, to restore the natural carbon cycle.

SECTION III:

The United Nations will enforce a carbon tax upon countries that produce carbon emissions that exceed regulations. This money will be used to develop the technology needed to perform this atmospheric carbon harvesting.

SECTION IV:

Countries that exceed the permitted carbon emission level will be forced to pay this tax. Denial to pay tax results in a fine.

A RESOLUTION

TO: Global Funds to Sponsoring Geoengineering Research

SECTION I:

Because much of geoengineering side-effects are unknown, research funds implemented into the study of its effects would better enable countries within the UN to evaluate their stance on geoengineering

SECTION II:

The Economy/Social council of the United Nations would set percentages of GDP taken from opted-in countries to fund research. With this research now available to countries and non-governmental organizations, their stance is more definitive.

SECTION III:

The UN is able to take funds from private entities of countries opted into the agreement. To limit abuse of power, there will be a cap, set by the Economy/Social council, on how much of the GDP and amount in private donations can be taken.

SECTION IV:

No definite penalties are required by this resolution. A country may be forced out of the agreement if they do not comply with whatever regulations have been set once they are already in.
